“Leaving a Legacy”

Strength, power, determination—the qualities we know are necessary to compete at the Olympics. But this photo only tells part of the story. The road to the Olympics isn't only about physical fitness. For many it's also about personal struggles. The struggles of a young boy whose family can't always put food on the table, who doesn't always succeed in school, who sleeps on the floor in college because he can't afford a bed. A boy who becomes a generous, caring young adult who wins a bronze medal in Rio.

“Hope is what you find, when you choose to focus on the light instead of the darkness.”
